County Grand Jury Files Final Report

No Indictment Is Contained; Juror Balks

Green Ridge Man Wanted Inquiry On Expenditures

Pettis County's first grand jury since June, 1949, filed its final report in the Circuit Court of Judge Dimmitt Hoffman Thursday afternoon. No indictments were returned, but one juror refused to sign the report.

The jury listed several investigations that were made since the judge made the call on Jan. 8, 1957, and stated that they had questioned 21 witnesses in one case and seven in another.

C. R. Stoddard, Green Ridge, refused to sign the jury's report. When Judge Hoffman asked why he did not sign it, Stoddard indicated he thought the group should have looked into the expenditures of the County.

The death of George Cramer was investigated and 21 witnesses were questioned, but evidence was not sufficient to place the blame on any one person, according to the report.

Also the jurors investigated the death of Francis Leroy Rush and their findings were the same as the coroner's jury. Seven witnesses were questioned.

Violations of the liquor law were investigated and the report stated that the jurors felt there were such cases existing but that evidence was not sufficient to return a true bill. They also reported that they felt the number of inspectors was not sufficient for the four county area that is now being worked by one man.

Street paving, county roads and school problems came under the scrutiny of the group but no report was made of discrepancies.

The County Court was commended on the condition of County buildings and in particular the court.

Hope for Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The U.N. General Assembly today approved a mildly-worded resolution expressing hope that the Algerian problem would be solved "in the spirit of cooperation."

WASHINGTON—Two powerful Senate committees called today for congressional adoption of a resolution stating this country's readiness to "use armed forces" to resist Communist aggression in the Middle East if President Eisenhower sees the need.

Protests Policy

Hennings Says Limit On Travel Is Wrong

WASHINGTON—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.) has protested "what seems to be an unwarranted policy," he said, of denying passports for American newsmen to visit Communist China.

Hennings yesterday termed such a state department policy "clearly contrary to our nation's best interests."

The Missouri Democrat said this in a letter inviting Secretary of State Dulles to give a Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights "a personal expression of your rather unusual views" on the issue.

Hennings said the subcommittee which he heads, plans to push "vigorously" an investigation of the situation.

"The right to travel, not only within the country, but beyond its borders, is one of the natural rights of a free man or woman," Hennings told Dulles. He said at another point that the state department has only "limited powers" in the passport field.

Hennings said he has heard the State Department is "threatening

DEFINITE ASSET—The million-gallon water tank of the Sedalia Water Co. has made a great difference in the performance and value of the firm and in the safety factor offered to the city.

Holds One Million Gallons

Elevated Tank Is Valuable Item in City Water System

The new elevated water storage tank at Main and Massachusetts holds one million gallons of purified water, instantly ready for any emergency. An electronic telemetering device at the tank records the water level and transmits this information to the operator at the pumping station—automatically—every second of the day and night.

The tank is a most valuable item in the property which Sedalia citizens will acquire in the purchase of the water system. It was erected as part of the water company's recent expansion and modernization program, which also includes new electric pumps, new wells for supplementary water supply, and new water mains in some locations.

Propose New Grade School At Windsor

Members of the Board of Education and Citizens Advisory Committee at Windsor have received recommendation from E. F. Allison of the State Department of Education for a new 12-room elementary school building on a new site there at an estimated cost of $230,000. An additional $10,000 was declared needed for remodeling the present building for high school facilities.

Allison estimated a 40-acre tract would be desirable to meet the future needs of the school system 15 years hence. Such a site must be within or near the city limits to utilize sewer and water systems and thereby reduce the cost of the expansion program.

Mr. Downs, spokesman for the architects, referred to Allison's recommendations as the "most obvious thing to do. We think the solution is a good one."

The new grade school building proposed by Allison would include better school facilities that will meet the needs 10 to 15 years from now.

In addition to classroom buildings, an office, health room, toilets, combination lunchroom and indoor play area, kitchen and heating area. It would provide for special education classes, crafts or music and room for an extra teacher if needed later.

The present grade school building could be converted to high school use to include two rooms for lunch facilities, additional music room, science classes and two rooms for seventh and eighth grade classes.

The maximum bond issue that could be voted under the present assessed valuation of the school district is $220,000. Mrs. Harris Douglas, school board member stated. The district now has outstanding bonds totaling $63,000.

Commenting on this, Hennings said:

"I doubt if those imprisoned Americans, and their families and friends, will be grateful to you, nor will they understand your curious claim that the rulers of Red China were trying to 'blackmail' the United States by making release of the prisoners conditional on your helping the American free press to exercise its constitutional responsibilities for the benefit of our country."

Car, Truck and Plane Are in Highway Crash

SHELBYNE, N.H.—A car, a truck and an airplane were involved in a collision yesterday. Juanita Coombs, 31, Sacramento Calif., driver of the car, explained the accident this way:

He was towing the light plane and became so awed by the scenery that he didn't realize his car had drifted to the other side of the road.

A truck came along from the other direction and the three vehicles collided. The car, truck and plane landed on the side of the road in a heap.

The truck driver was Jason Hazleton of South Paris, Maine. Coombs, who suffered lacerations of the face and shock, was charged with reckless driving.

Capital City Has Severe Water Crisis

Hoped to Get Pumps Back In Operation By Noon Today

JEFFERSON CITY—Jefferson City hospitals went on an emergency operation only basis, schools closed down and some businesses were at a standstill today as the water crisis which struck the city last night worsened.

L. W. Helmreich, superintendent of the Capital City Water Co., said he hoped the pumps that draw the city's water supply from the Missouri River would be back in operation by noon. But he added it would take "a couple of hours" for pressure to build back up after the pumps resume operation.

Emergency crews worked through the night since sand got into the underground pumping station due to the low level of the river and damaged the pumps, Helmreich said.

"This hasn't happened since 1845," he said.

Charles E. Still Osteopathic Hospital authorities said no surgery would be scheduled today other than emergency cases. The hospital has water only for drinking and cooking.

St. Mary's Hospital still has a small reserve supply, but closed its laundry and also went on an emergency basis.

Most of Jefferson City's schools are out of water and others have only a trickle, according to Joe Nichols Jr., superintendent of schools. Schools opened this morning but planned to dismiss for the day at 11 a.m., he said. Helias Catholic High School sent students home at 9:30 a.m.

Lincoln University shut down its classrooms because the water shortage prevented full operation of the heating plant.

The city's two major hotels were hard hit by the shortage. One reported it had no water except a small reserve supply for room service—drinking water only. The other said it had water on the first floor and in the basement only—with a big convention scheduled to check in today.

Residents in many sections of the city were out of water, depending on how high or low their neighborhoods are. Druggists reported a rushing business in the sale of bottled mineral water.

Helmreich said a reserve supply is being maintained in the event of a major fire. A deep well on the capital grounds has been supplying a small amount, he said.

This program led the consulting engineers retained by the city to characterize the water system physical property as "in excellent operating condition upon completion of the current substantial improvement program."

The new steel tank, mounted on a steel tower and rising 146 feet above the ground, was completed last summer. It was filled with water early in July, and has been in continuous operation ever since.

Its value is set by the consulting engineers at approximately one-fourth million dollars.

After nearly 70 years of operation without an elevated water storage tower, the Sedalia Water Co. felt it necessary to build this because construction of the tank was strongly recommended by the Fire Underwriters' Bureau as a forward, progressive step and one which would reduce local fires.

Formerly, during times of fire, pressure was raised at the pumping station, which was termed by the Underwriters' as an antiquated method. In fact, Sedalia has a secretariat in the party organization of White Russia, was named a first deputy foreign minister. Patolichev has been a deputy foreign minister since July and is a member of the Central Committee.

Shepilov replaced Molotov as foreign minister last June 1, on the eve of a visit to Moscow by President Tito of Yugoslavia.

The timing of this shift was interpreted as a gesture of good will toward Tito. Molotov had been one of the primary figures in the anti-Tito campaign carried on by Stalin after Yugoslavia's Communists broke with the Cominform in 1948.

Molotov now leads the Soviet committee of state control. He also is a first deputy premier.

Shepilov is a former editor of Pravda and an interpreter of the party line. He outlined Soviet foreign policy this week before the Supreme Soviet session just ended.

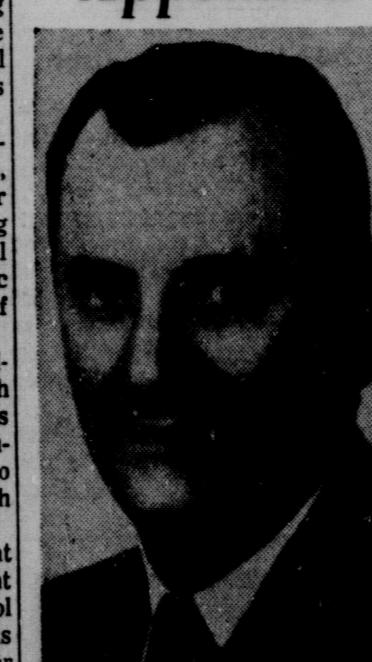

Beck was interviewed at his hotel. He has been here since early this week. He says he has been studying how best to make a financial contribution by his union to Hungarian relief. He said it was a question of whether to let Austrian trade unions handle the money or to give it through international transport union channels.

Beck vehemently denied suggestions published in the United States that he is traveling abroad to dodge testifying before a Senate subcommittee investigating labor racketeering. He declared the committee chairman, Sen. McClellan had "kept me dangling on hook" about a date.

Gromyko Replaces Shepilov

Western Observers See Shift to Old Molotov Policies

MOSCOW—The Soviet government today relieved Dmitri Shepilov of his post as foreign minister and appointed career diplomat Andrei Gromyko in his place.

Shepilov took the foreign minister's job last June, succeeding V. M. Molotov. He returns to his old position as one of the eight secretaries of the powerful Communist party Central Committee.

Shepilov always has been regarded as a protege of Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Gromyko has been considered a protege of Molotov.

Western observers said the shuffle indicates a return to the old Molotov line in Soviet foreign policy. The Molotov line was a tough one. The Khrushchev policy plugs the theme of peaceful co-existence.

The announcement said a full meeting of the Communist Central Committee yesterday named Frolik Romanovich Kozlov as a candidate (alternate) member of the party's ruling Presidium, successor to the old Politburo. Kozlov has been an active leader of the Leningrad party committee and a close collaborator of former Premier Georgi M. Malenkov.

As a secretary of the Communist party Central Committee, Shepilov rejoins the other secretaries headed by Khrushchev, who has the title of first secretary.

Nikolai Semenovich Patolichev, who has been a secretary in the party organization of White Russia, was named a first deputy foreign minister. Patolichev has been a deputy foreign minister since July and is a member of the Central Committee.

Shepilov replaced Molotov as foreign minister last June 1, on the eve of a visit to Moscow by President Tito of Yugoslavia. Blair Appoints Bates As Public Health Director

JEFFERSON CITY—Gov. James T. Blair appointed G. Hubert Bates of Lexington state finance commissioner today, re-appointed C. Rouss Gallop of Mexico director of public health and welfare.

Bates, former state treasurer, succeeds Joseph A. Rouveyrol of St. Louis, who resigned Feb. 1.

Bates, now 72, takes over the $9,500 a year finance commissioner's job after four years in the state treasurer's office. He started in politics as Lafayette County clerk in 1915, was in the banking business for a time and came to Jefferson City as State Auditor. He was Forrest Smith's chief clerk in 1933.

He was the first supervisor of the new sales tax division in 1934 and later collector and director of the Department of Revenue.

4-Year-Old's Cooking Adventure Brings Firemen to Home

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — A little short on culinary experience, 4-year-old Scott Abell was surprised but not nonplussed when the egg he was preparing for his mother's breakfast exploded.

Scott walked calmly to the telephone and asked the operator to send a fireman. A Fire Department operator asked him where his parents were. "Asleep," he answered.

Since Scott didn't know his own address the fireman had the call traced, and shortly after 5 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Abell were awakened by the tramp of firemen's boots.

The egg fire had burned itself out by the time the fire laddies arrived.

Scott has decided against becoming a chef. He wants to be a fireman.

Legislative resolutions may take many forms — of praise, of condolence, of direct criticism, of constructive criticism, or implied criticism.

In the latter category is one before the Missouri Legislature which by indirection criticizes operations of Missouri's Conservation Commission. The resolution suggests that reports and rumors should either be confirmed or proved wrong, and calls for a joint House-Senate committee to make the investigation.

Missouri's Conservation Commission has been the target of vague accusations before and since it was placed on a non-partisan basis. Concerning its operations the Jefferson City News-Tribune has this to say:

"Missouri voters emphatically endorsed the non-partisan approach to the state's wildlife activities a number of years ago. The record, we believe, will show the commission has done well since then. In fact, it has brought Missouri's wildlife operations into one of prominence and stature."

"We seriously doubt that the voters want any meddling into the commission's activities unless there is evidence an inquiry is really needed. No such evidence has been advanced."

Getting closer to home, next we suppose someone will want the legislature to investigate the Missouri State Fair. Lon Hocker, unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor, during his campaign called attention to reports of dissatisfaction over lagging interest in agricultural displays, treatment of concessionaires and exhibitors of agricultural products, some complaints of over emphasis of auto-racing and commercial entertainment features although the grandstand shows and carnivals seemed to have "packed in the paying customers." This trend toward money making to the exclusion of free exhibits of farm products, livestock, farm machinery, and Missouri's over all demonstrated agricultural potential can easily be moderated by the management.

The management consists of appointees of the administration in power and this procedure usually follows the partisan line with respect to the Missouri State Fair. Political uncertainties can affect the morale of management of any agency not operated on a non-partisan basis.

Governor James T. Blair this week appointed John Sam Williamson, farmer near Columbia, as state commissioner of agriculture. From what has been revealed of his background the new appointee ought not to have much trouble being confirmed by the State Senate. His agricultural and business experience and identity with farm association programs certainly lends credence to Governor Blair's wise selection of him, and also today of M. C. "Colie" Ervin as Secretary-Manager of the State Fair.

If Williamson's appointment is approved by the Senate then it does seem good business procedure to permit him to demonstrate his executive ability as a Commissioner of Agriculture; and this includes top level attention to the administrative affairs of the Missouri State Fair. If there are any policy improvements which can be made to counteract dissatisfaction concerning how this agency of the state should be operated, then Williamson and Ervin should have initial opportunity to do something about it without benefit of Democratic House investigation of Democratic management under past Democratic administrations.

First let's see how clean a new Williamson-Ervin broom can sweep without a dozen handles to the straw.

With all due respect to the worthy purposes of Missouri Legislators there are times when they can get the resolution hot flashes, the most recent one of which has been directed at the Missouri Conservation Commission.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

May Be Sitting On Financial Dynamite

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With ex-President Hoover warning that our present economy has some of the earmarks of the depression that hit his administration, and with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey talking about a possible depression that would "make your hair curl," this is the time to watch the organization set up to watch the stock market—the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Things have changed around the SEC in the past four years. All you have to do is look at its personnel to understand how much it has changed.

When the SEC was first established under Roosevelt to police the stock market, FDR appointed to it some of the best brains in the nation. Its commissioners included Justice William O. Douglas, now on the Supreme Court; Ferdinand Pecora, later on the New York Supreme Court; Joseph K. Kennedy, later ambassador to England; the late Judge Jerome Frank of the U.S. Court of Appeals; James Landis, later chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board; Sumner Pike, later on the Atomic Energy Commission; Leon Henderson, later OPA administrator; Harry McDonald; Ganson Puccell; and others.

In those days, SEC commissioners took the initiative in watching Wall Street. They didn't wait for financial murders to be committed first. They took action to prevent the murders.

Under Eisenhower, however, the SEC started playing brazen, amazing politics when it ignored a lengthy telegram from J. D. Stetzenroth, the secretary of Mississippi Power and Light, a Dixon-Yates subsidiary, warning that the company had filed false figures with the SEC.

The name of the law establishing the SEC is the "Truth-in-Securities" Act, meaning that anyone who sells stocks and bonds must file a statement with the SEC and tell the truth.

"I desire to withdraw each and every financial figure and any and all data which are included in the registration statements," Stetzenroth telegraphed.

He referred to the proposed stock flotation of Middle South Utilities and Mississippi Power and Light, part of the Dixon-Yates combine.

Yet, despite this warning from a high official of the combine, the SEC OK'd the stock flotation next day. Previous SEC commissioners would have held extensive hearings. But the new SEC, unworried about protecting the investing public, didn't wait minute.

Meanwhile, likable, inexperienced, young J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the SEC, is sitting on several kegs of financial dynamite, but doesn't seem to know it.

There's some interesting backstage wire-pulling behind the fact that two separate Senate committees are investigating oil. It points toward the door of potent, personable, oil-conscious Lyndon Johnson, senator from oil-rich Texas.

Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming began investigating oil last summer. An experienced, relentless trust-buster, O'Mahoney can be depended on to do a good job. Backstopping him and working with him as new chairman of the anti-monopoly subcommittee is Estes Kefauver, another uncompromising trust-buster. Their committee asked for $300,000 to carry on a comprehensive probe of all monopoly—including oil—to have the Rules Committee scale this down to $225,000.

When the matter came up on the Senate floor, the anti-monopoly subcommittee asked for an additional $25,000. Instead of getting it, $50,000—twice that much—was dropped out of clear Senate skies into the lap of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee for a rival probe of oil.

It was an astute diversionary tactic. For this committee is headed by Washington's charming, easy going Sen. Warren Magnuson. Serving on the Commerce Committee with him are Texas' new senator, William Blakely, whom Johnson expressly put on this committee; also the following senators who voted with the big natural gas boys last year: Pastore (R.I.), Monroney (Okla.), Smathers (Fla.), Thurmond (S.C.), all Democrats; and Bricker (Ohio), Schoeffel (Kan.), Butler (Md.), Payne (Me.), and Cotton (N.H.), all Republicans.

With this extraordinary line-up of pro-gas-oil senators during the investigating on the Commerce Committee, the oil lobby can figure that the two-fisted probe of the anti-monopoly committee will be either counteracted or blocked out.

Stassen Post Mortem

It has been a long time since Harold Stassen has had any status in this country as a political expert. Most of his Republican colleagues no longer take him seriously in this field.

Probably he did not add to his position when he said recently that Vice President Nixon's presence on the 1956 GOP ticket cost the Republicans control of both houses of Congress.

Stassen said that if former Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter had been on the slate it would have helped more state and local tickets to victory.

Most politicians will look upon this as foolish talk, largely because it is idle opinion. It can neither be proved nor disproved, and it involves many variables which for all practical purposes render it useless.

American Reds Rearrange Furniture

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first question that can be fairly put to the newly reorganized American Communist party is: Whom do you think you're kidding?

All the party did at its New York convention this week was to rearrange the furniture to make it look like a native, national American party, concerned only with American welfare and no longer a Russian agent.

That's exactly what Moscow a year ago told Western Communist parties to do. The reason was simple: everywhere they had run into stone walls and their membership was dwindling.

If they could change their front they might be able to work with, and infiltrate, other groups — like labor, Socialists, liberals — which would have nothing to do with them so long as they were plainly Moscow errand boys.

Thus at the very moment of declaring itself an own man at last, the American party was following the new Russian post-Stalin line just as slavishly as it had followed Stalin while he was alive.

The Russians — after seeing what a little taste of independence had done among Polish and Hungarian Communists who had taken Moscow's advice too literally — did not want other parties to go too far.

The American Communist party didn't go too far. Since Russia's bloody intrusion in Hungary, the party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, under the editorship of John Gates, had been critical of Moscow.

The press was barred from the convention in New York. But it can be said on the best authority not a single resolution adopted at the convention was critical of Russia.

And Gates barely got himself elected to the new 11-man administrative committee which will now boss the party. The party leadership, despite some rearranging, remains the same.

Until the convention William Z. Foster had been chairman for years, just as Eugene Dennis had been secretary. They had caused dissension among rank-and-file party members by the nature of their leadership.

Under them the party had reached the edge of disaster, suffering tremendous membership losses and finding itself isolated from all other groups in America.

If they could change their front they might be able to work with, and infiltrate, other groups — like labor, Socialists, liberals — which would have nothing to do with them so long as they were plainly Moscow errand boys.

As a sop to the dissatisfied, Foster and Dennis were stripped of their titles but wound up on the administrative committee just the same. This is supposed to be a kind of collective leadership. That's what the Russians have. They set it up after Stalin's death.

In the past the American Communist party had attracted many intellectuals. It should have small appeal to intellectuals in the future if they have any morality.

The American party stands intellectually degraded to a degree almost unbelievable among thinking people. It had never questioned Stalin, either on his tactics, his interpretation or his murders until his successors in the Kremlin denounced him and revealed him.

The American Communists acted surprised. It had as one of them said at the convention, always considered that what the Russian party did was "ipso facto valid." This was a complete confession that the American Communist party had abdicated thinking.

Superstitions And Fables Involved Heart In Past

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Since ancient times the heart has been recognized as essential to life, though why and how has been discovered only comparatively recently.

The connection between life and the heart has brought about a whole lot of superstitions.

One ancient Greek superstition, attributed to Pliny, asserts that he heart of one who died of heart disease could not be burned, and the same was said to be true after death by poison.

Another popular belief mentioned by Pliny is that animals with a hard and rigid heart were looked upon as stupid and lumpy, while those in whom the heart is small were courageous. Those with a very large heart were believed timid.

Inhabitants of the Orkney and Shetland Islands are supposed to have believed that if any person was emaciated by sickness or accident, the heart was worn away. They believed that this could be discovered by melting a piece of lead and throwing it into cold water. If the hardened lead took the shape of a heart the person would recover.

In the Scottish Highlands a widespread belief was that insanity was caused by a person's heart getting out of place due to a sudden shock. It was also felt that another shock would send it back to its former position. Sudden shock was therefore one

Economic Picture Uneven

Inflationary Pressures In Many Instances Built-in

By Joseph A. Dear

Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — It seems that President Eisenhower regards inflation as the most serious problem of the day.

Since the beginning of the year, Ike has not missed a chance to stress the danger. And time and again he has told business and labor that holding the price line is their job. At his last press conference, he suggested government price and wage controls were a possibility if business and labor did not practice voluntary restraint.

In calling for voluntary restraint, the President is paying high tribute to free enterprise. If inflation is as dangerous as he implies, though, voluntary restraint may not be enough.

The government's consumer price index, which reflects the inflationary spiral of rising prices and wages, jumped 3.5 per cent in the last 10 months of 1956. The rise in certain areas of the economy has been much sharper. According to Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), the rise in the price of hard goods over the last 18 months was about 20 per cent. The rise of all industrials in the same period was perhaps 9 per cent. Farm prices slumped about 12 per cent, and soft goods remained about the same.

The important angle is that the economic picture is uneven. There are inflationary pockets in the economy, and it is doubtful if those in these pockets could control the inflationary pattern no matter what their desire. In some areas, inflationary pressures are built-in.

For example, many important industrial wage contracts now in effect provide for wage increases of six cents or more an hour. More than five million employees are covered.

Those who have found peace in their walk with God are just as disturbed by the footprints of hatred and war on the earth, where they do not belong. The footprints are frequently made by pranksters who would upset a decent world for personal ambition or for some demonic desire to make others suffer.

Those who harm God's children and upset love in the universe will be judged more severely than they may be judged in human courts. It were better that they had not been born.

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Footprints on the ceiling bother us. We seldom see them and when we do we wonder whether some prankster has climbed up and intentionally marred the clean surface with a footlike smudge. In any case footprints do not belong above our heads. Gravity does not permit our walking in the opposite direction of its force.

Those who have found peace in their walk with God are just as disturbed by the footprints of hatred and war on the earth, where they do not belong. The footprints are frequently made by pranksters who would upset a decent world for personal ambition or for some demonic desire to make others suffer.

The cold belt during the night extended from eastern Ohio and western New York through Pennsylvania and into extreme northern Virginia. Falls in most places were light although they measured 6 inches in the Harrisburg, Pa., area and more than 5 inches at Philipsburg, in central Pennsylvania.

The cold belt stretched from the Great Lakes region southward to northern parts of the Gulf Coast states and eastward to the western half of the Mid-Atlantic states. Temperatures averaged about 16 degrees lower than yesterday morning.

Sunday School Lesson Notes:

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

From many years of experience and observation in religion, one of my strong impressions is of the comparative decline of what might be called "otherworldliness" in religious emphasis.

The Kingdom of Heaven tends to be more of a present reality in inner experience, "the kingdom of God is within you" (Luke 17:21) than a speculative future, lacking at least in any detailed blueprint. Salvation, too, is more a matter of character and new life, of inward peace and blessedness, than a prospective saving from hell and from "the wrath to come."

This does not mean that salvation is less a matter of future welfare in a life to come. I think, rather, that it arises from a sort of underlying conviction that life here is a sort of probation, and its gravity here is related to the future.

This does not mean that man claims his place in Heaven by what he is. The deepest quality of a devout soul will always be, "God be merciful to me a sinner."

But I do not think it does mean that, despite the sincerity of the repentant cry of the dying thief on the cross, so-called bedside, last hour repents, whatever their place in future salvation, have been on a poor substitute for a life of seeking to know, and do, the will of God.

So, in a sense, the present world emphasis on religion has much to commend it, though Jesus commanded being in the world, but not of the world (John 17:14-16). In any case, I am sure that over the years there has been a trend toward more emphasis upon religion in the here and now.

In the days of my youth, religious songs were more in evidence than the great hymns of the church. These songs expressed predominantly the religious emotions and experiences of the time, and they had to do chiefly with "otherworldliness."

Most popular of all, I think, was "In the Sweet Bye-and-Bye," a rather rollicking tune, which offered great opportunity for deep bas-

It was as vague in a way as the more recent "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," but it had some genuine sentiment about "meeting, singing and reigning" in the Land where the saved never die."

"Shall We Gather at the River?" and similar songs emphasized the joys of reunion in a better land, while an equal emphasis was on the blessings of rest.

Francis Grier, the eminent pianist improviser, who grew up on the American midwest frontier, attributed the emphasis in these religious songs to the hard and exacting conditions of life and the work. The hard-pressed and weary found relief in contemplating the blessedness of rest and relief.

It was well that hard-working and hard-driven people should find compensation in the vision of a better world. But I think it is well, also, that under less hard-driven conditions multitudes are finding joy in work, and a religion of present peace and happiness, without, I hope, losing the vision of Jerusalem the Golden.

Mr. Purviance has assumed his duties as minister of First Christian Church in Sedalia. Next Sunday morning will be his first time in the pulpit.

Roy Dawson, chairman of the Official Board, will preside at the morning service. Mr. Purviance comes to Sedalia from a very successful pastorate in Lubbock, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Purviance have two daughters, Dianne, age seven, and Debra, age two.

For the past seven and one-half years, Mr. Purviance has served as pastor of the Lubbock View Christian Church. He was the minister of this new congregation when it was started on July 1, 1949. The charter membership of the church was 83. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Purviance, 624 members have been added. The resident membership of the church is now over 500.

Mr. Purviance is a graduate of Texas Christian University and a Delta College of the Bible, both of Fort Worth, Texas.

A service of installation will be held for Mr. Purviance on Sunday afternoon March 10, at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Lester Rickman will preach the installation sermon. A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Purviance, Dianne and Debra, will follow the installation service.

He Draws Rave Notices

Search for 'New Campanella' May Have Ended In Roseboro

HAVANA (P) — Brooklyn's long search for a "new Campanella" may have ended in John Roseboro, a young man from Ashland Ohio, who is drawing rave notices from Caribbean baseball scouts.

Roseboro, only 23, hit .338 with Caracas in the Venezuela Winter League and competed in the Caribbean series against Cuba, Puerto Rico and Panama. Last year he was a .273 hitter with 25 home runs at Montreal.

"Roseboro is the No. 1 prospect I've seen any place," said Mickey Owen, who managed Mayaguez, the Puerto Rican League champions. "He can do all things big—run, hit and throw."

Wallace Has Chance to Get Scoring Lead

The Associated Press

It's graceful Grady Wallace's turn to bid for the lead in the national college basketball scoring derby tonight.

The 6-4 South Carolina forward leads his teammates against Virginia in an Atlantic Coast Conference home game.

He needs one of his better nights if he's to close in on leader Chet Forte of Columbia and runner-up Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas.

Chet the Jet has an average of .38.18 points per game; The Stilt has 29.94 and Grady 29.90.

Wallace needs 36 points tonight to take the lead.

Wallace, a 170-pound senior, is noted for his graceful hook shots, his rebounding and defensive work. He led Gamecock scorers last year with a .23.9 mark and has been the mainstay of a so-so (11-9) team this season.

Forte and Chamberlain go into action tomorrow when Columbia visits Dartmouth and Kansas hits Missouri.

Action was in low key last night as most of the nation's leading teams rested for a strenuous weekend. In the Southern Conference, William and Mary brought its loop record to 6-7 by downing Virginia Military 83-66.

In the Skyline Conference, Denver staged a second-half comeback to trip Montana 55-53, and Utah used a late surge to overtake New Mexico 107-82.

The Dayton Flyers, enjoying one of the hottest streaks in college circles, breezed over Regis College of Denver 97-53 for their 10th victory in their last 11 games.

In the Southeastern Conference's lone outing, Georgia Tech bounced arch-rival Georgia 67-65 by erasing a 4-point deficit in the last three minutes.

St. John's of Brooklyn enhanced its prospects for an NIT bid by stopping Niagara 71-67, and Manhattan trounced New York University 93-78.

Minor League Players May Get Cardinal Positions This Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (P) — Pitcher Tom Cheney, shortstop Dick Schofield and outfielder Bobby Gene Smith are given the best chance to make the St. Louis Cardinals varsity by Walter Shannon, the club's supervisor of minor league personnel.

At the opening of the Cardinals' early spring training camp yesterday Shannon said there are about 12 players up from the minors who might make the club, but Cheney, Schofield and Smith should do it.

Shannon said Schofield, a fancy fielder and .295 hitter at Omaha last year, and Eddie Kasko, .303 at Rochester, "definitely are ready for the majors now" and will give regular Al Dark a battle.

The 22-year-old Smith, in his first year above Class C, hit .299 and had 21 homers and 29 doubles at Houston last year. Cheney won 10, lost 5 at Omaha.

Kansas Citian Gives $75,000 to University To Build Golf Course

KANSAS CITY (P) — A Kansas City manufacturer has given the University of Missouri $75,000 to build an 18-hole golf course near the campus at Columbia.

The gift was made by A. L. Gustin Jr., who attended the university 1922-25.

Dr. Elmer Ellis, university president, accepted the gift last night and said the course would be built on 200 acres of the old Rollins farm which the school bought last year.

The university's former golf course became the site of emergency housing for ex-GI students in 1946.

State Saddle Clubs Have Quarterly Meet

The state Saddle Club Association held their quarterly meeting at the Court House, and elected the following officers: Ben Terrell, Marshall, president; Orman Meador, Sweet Springs, vice president; Mrs. Doris Knuckles, Marshall, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Nellie Meyer, Sweet Springs, Missouri public director.

In Europe, women devote their lives to their husbands. Here, it is the men who devote their lives to their wives. That is wonderful for the women; but it is going against nature.

Woman was not meant to be the dominating force in a marriage. The man is supposed to be the master. I think that's why so many women are unhappy in this country: they are upset by the improper balance in their lives."

Monique, who is warbling at Mocambo these nights, said she felt American women are too susceptible to advertising urging them to acquire material things. "They should concentrate less on buying new machines and more on keeping their husbands happy," she remarked. "European women don't care about the labor-saving devices. They are accustomed to working long hours in the home, and they enjoy it. They feel they are helping their husbands and their family."

Lawrence Twenter was elected president of the State Fair Saddle Club Monday night. Other officers are: B. A. Fischer, vice-president; Bill Greer, treasurer; Bert Selvey, parade marshal; George Putnam and Kenne Kehl, first and second drill leaders.

The regular meeting was preceded by a turkey dinner at the Pacific Room.

Younger Set Can Relax With Como

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — It probably has not occurred to Perry Como, but this fellow is exercising a beneficial influence on the manners of younger Americans.

Como demonstrates in his Saturday night NBC-TV program that relaxed manners are good manners. While some members of the older generation may think that the younger generation is too relaxed at times, our argument runs that they really object when the youngsters are intense.

We argue, for example, that the followers of Elvis Presley are intense. On the other hand, the followers of Como are relaxed.

Como is currently a big man in our neighborhood with the younger generation — to say nothing of the older generation.

A mother of one 14-year-old boy reports that since he's flipped for Como he's lost much of his belligerency. Imitating Como's television manner, he has developed a slow smile, an easy-going tolerance. While he has not taken up singing, he's decided he wants to play the trumpet and has begun taking lessons.

Como's relaxed and really superb manners are not confined to the TV screen.

You would see it if you could attend a Como rehearsal. The final run-through of his show, four hours before air time, is a relaxed and pleasant social occasion at the Ziegfeld Theater. Producer Robert S. Finkel and Director Grey Lockwood may become intense at times. But Como himself, tireless and usually wearing a sweater, stays cool.

At last week's final run-through, for example, he obviously helped keep his guests cool too. Watching him work out with his guests Tommy Noonan and the Lord Fred Group — you could see him making it mighty easy for them because he was making it mighty easy for himself.

Pettis County Junior Leaders Council Meets

The February meeting of the Pettis County Junior Leaders Council was held at the Pettis County courthouse February 5.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Virginia Grimes. Carolee Shirley led the group in singing. Caroline Staley led the 4-H pledge and pledge to the American flag.

National 4-H Club Week was discussed. Report was made that the Pettis County 4-H Council would use the safety exhibit which the Junior Leaders displayed at the Fair as a window exhibit.

Associate Agent Owen Fox announced that American Youth Foundation Camp would be held for girls July 29 to Aug. 11 and for boys Aug. 12 to 25. If members are interested they should turn their names into the Extension office. Fox also announced that Junior Leader public speaking would be held again this year at Achievement Day. He also announced that Junior Leaders, and those in food projects and meat animal projects could participate in meat identification and judging.

Announcement was made that Fun Night would be held March 2.

Next meeting was announced for April 2. Highway Patrol has the program and the Flat Creek 4-H Club has charge of the recreation.

Miss O'Briant announced the Play Festival will be held March 18-20. Fox showed a film on "Share the Fun."

Games were led by the Hughesville and Longwood 4-H Clubs.

U. N. Rejects Red Attempt To Cite U. S.

Group Refuses to Consider Debate on Ike Midwest Plan, Alleged Aggression by U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—The U.N. Steering Committee beat down today a Soviet demand for immediate Assembly debate on the Eisenhower doctrine and other alleged aggressive acts by the United States.

The committee voted 8-6 against the Russian move after U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. denounced the complaint as "stupidly false" and a "gigantic cock and bull story."

Ike Maintains Stand on Plan For Mid-East

Says Resolution Would Accomplish U.S. Policy Purposes

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower, after a fresh study, tonight stood by his assertion that the Middle East resolution approved by two Senate committees is "designed to accomplish the purposes" of the administration's program for that area.

But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to go so far as to say the President accepts the committee-approved resolution "without reservation."

"I didn't say that," Hagerty replied.

KEY LANGUAGE ALTERED

The two committees yesterday changed key language in the administration resolution before voting 20 to 8 approval of the modified version. That modification dealt with use of American forces in the Middle East.

Hagerty said last night Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles wanted to study the language change further, but that both men at that time believed "the language is designed to give the president the authority he asked for."

OKAYS CHANGED TEXT

Late today the President, vacationing here, talked by telephone with Dulles again and Hagerty then told a news conference:

"The President has now examined the text of the joint resolution on the Middle East as approved by the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees of the Senate. He has conferred with the secretary of state on the wording of the resolution."

"The President feels that the Senate committees' text is intended and designed to accomplish the purposes outlined by the President

U.S. FAVORS AIRING
Lodge, however, conformed to the standing U.S. policy in favor of airing all charges against the United States. He voted with the Soviet delegation for a debate. Others voting for debate were Czechoslovakia, Egypt, India and Britain.

Countries voting against were Nationalist China, Denmark, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, France, Italy, Peru and Turkey. Pakistan abstained and the 16th committee member, Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, Assembly president, did not take part in the voting.

Lodge said the United States did not object to inscription of the proposed item on the Assembly agenda "in the belief that membership in the United Nations gives every member government the right to make a fool of himself if he wants to, and that is a right of which the Soviet Union in this case has taken complete advantage."

RENEWED DEMAND SEEN

The final decision is up to the 20-nation Assembly. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov is expected to renew his demand when the Assembly takes up the report of the steering committee.

Kuznetsov charged that the Eisenhower doctrines was aimed at direct U.S. intervention in the internal affairs of the Middle East, that the United States was committing aggressive actions by building air and military bases in Turkey, Pakistan, and other countries around the globe, and that "ruling circles" in the United States were preparing for atomic warfare.

VEILED SOVIET DRIVE'

Lodge said the Soviet proposal is a "thinly veiled and deliberately timed attack on President Eisenhower's Middle Eastern policy because the policy would prevent Soviet subversion of the sovereignty of all the small states in the Middle East."

Lodge said every base overseas was established with the consent of the country involved. He said Soviet troops in bases in Hungary killed 25,000 Hungarians in the process of "re-enslaving the Hungarian people" and said Kuznetsov was the last person to moralize about bases.

OKAYS CHANGED TEXT

Late today the President, vacationing here, talked by telephone with Dulles again and Hagerty then told a news conference:

"The President has now examined the text of the joint resolution on the Middle East as approved by the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees of the Senate. He has conferred with the secretary of state on the wording of the resolution."

Soil Bank Extension Sought

State Committee Recommends Two-Level Drought Aid Plan

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14 (AP)—The State Drought Committee today recommended a two-level program to help drought-plagued farmers get through the next few months—in the hope that rain will finally come to settle future problems.

In one recommendation, the committee urged Gov. James T. Blair to ask the U.S. Department of Agriculture to let farmers continue pasturing stock on soil bank acres beyond the present Feb. 28 deadline. The committee decided it would be easier to keep such a drought emergency privilege than it would be to get it back again.

PASTURE DANGER

Without putting any note of caution into their recommendation, committee members said, however, it would be dangerous for most Missouri farmers to keep stock on the soil bank acres in these early months of the year.

They said, instead, the acres should be permitted to gain a cover of grass or seeded crop in the early spring months before turning stock back on the land.

In the other recommendation, they urged that present agricultural conservation program allotments—plus any drought emergency funds that may be made available by Congress—be allocated toward a pasture re-seeding and fertilizing program, with the federal government paying 80 per cent of the cost and the farmer paying the rest.

COULD START RESEEDING

That would allow many farmers to get started quickly on at least a partial program of reseeding with oats, Sudan grass or les-

"PUTT IT BACK!"—President Eisenhower, left, gestures while telling caddy Melvin Davis not to reach for the ball after a putt sunk on the ninth green of a Thomasville, Ga., golf course by the Chief Executive's partner, John Walters, center, in white jacket. Moments later, the President took the ball from the hole himself and shook hands with Walter, club pro at the course. (NEA Telephoto)

No Indictments Contained In Final Grand Jury Report

Pettis County's first grand jury since June, 1949, filed its final report in the Circuit Court of Judge Dismitt Hoffman Thursday afternoon. No indictments were returned, but one juror refused to sign the report.

The jury listed several investigations that were made since the judge made the call on Jan. 8, 1957, and stated that they had questioned 21 witnesses in one case and seven in another.

C. R. Stoddard, Green Ridge, refused to sign the jury's report. When Judge Hoffman asked why he didn't sign it, Stoddard did not give a definite answer but indicated he thought the group should have looked into the expenditures of the County.

CRAMER DEATH QUERIED

The death of George Cramer was investigated and 21 witnesses were questioned, but evidence was not sufficient to place the blame on any one person, according to the report.

Also the jurors investigated the death of Francis Leroy Rush and their findings were the same as the coroner's jury. Seven witnesses were questioned.

Violations of the liquor law were investigated and the report stated that the jurors felt there were such cases existing but that evidence was not sufficient to return a true bill. They also reported that they felt the number of inspectors was not sufficient for the four county area that is now being worked by one man.

VEILED SOVIET DRIVE'

Lodge said the Soviet proposal is a "thinly veiled and deliberately timed attack on President Eisenhower's Middle Eastern policy because the policy would prevent Soviet subversion of the sovereignty of all the small states in the Middle East."

Lodge said every base overseas was established with the consent of the country involved. He said Soviet troops in bases in Hungary killed 25,000 Hungarians in the process of "re-enslaving the Hungarian people" and said Kuznetsov was the last person to moralize about bases.

"The President feels that the Senate committees' text is intended and designed to accomplish the purposes outlined by the President

Style Show at Convention Hall Depicts Variety in Fashions

By HAZEL LANG

The style show Wednesday night at Convention Hall, Liberty Park, sponsored by the Beta Tau Chapter, Beta Sigma, and presented by local stores, told the story of the return of very feminine fashions for the ladies for spring.

The clothes for women this year are a mingling of styles from various eras, the princess, the high empire waist, the natural waist, and even a hint of the torso waist. The jackets are bolero, waistline and then there is the graceful cape in all lengths.

The skirts are pencil slim to the very full that may be worn over crinolines. The sheath dress is very good and can be found with little jackets or full-length matching dusters, most of them on straight lines. There are convertible neckline and adjustable cuffs, beautiful white lace trimmed collars, high necklines and low, velvet trim and other material of contrasting or blending shades, often interlaced in the material of the garment, such as wide black velvet on a black and white silk cocktail dress the ties with a flat bow and streamers in the back, or the gold linen that interlaced the jacket of the suit.

Colors—well, navy again is in the lead, with navy and white polka dots and just as popular are all shades of beige. Blues, lavenders and pinks are very good, along with black and black and white. Linen is exceptionally popular, and other materials are silks, silks and cottons, dacron, brushed cotton.

Hats are big and little, all shapes, flower trimmed, velvet trimmed and in all kinds of straw materials. Gloves are from the very short, to the very long for the popular push up sleeves.

For little girls the dresses are of ruffles, flounces, lace trims, sashes, and materials are all the new easy to laundry fabrics. Little crinolines still hold out the little full skirts and the hats are just as fuzzy as the dresses, some of white lace, ribbon or velvet trim and many with flowers. Most of them tie under the chin. One little girl even had a tiny parasol. The little girls, too, wore gloves.

There were not only a great number of little girl models who modeled like real professionals but the little boys did their modeling just as well from the tiny tots on up to the older boys. Color, when it comes to jackets, was well in evidence. There was a jacket of Scotch plaid with plenty of red and then a jacket of red flannel. Many of the jackets were worn with contrasting trousers, the darker coats with the lighter trousers, or the lighter coats and the darker trousers. Then there are complete suits, too, in grays or brown

Britain Tells N.A.T.O. She Plans to Cut Size Of Forces in Germany

Strained Economy A Factor

Commonwealth May Adopt New Nuclear Concept

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Britain formally told her NATO allies today she must cut the number of British troops in Western Germany.

A strained economy and a new nuclear concept of military strategy lay behind the move. Details are still secret but it is reported Britain will reduce her forces in Germany from 80,000 to about 50,000.

FRANCE MAY CUT TOO

The decision was announced as French Defense Minister Maurice Bourges-Manouy arrived in London and told newsmen that France too wants to slim down her military system. He is here for talks with British officials on coordinating the two nations' cuts.

The British step came a day after Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, conferred with British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys and other officials.

Norstad, an American, opposed the cuts as "dangerous."

Sandys a short while ago returned from the United States where he outlined Britain's financial situation. He is reported to have convinced the Pentagon of the British need to revamp her military setup.

OTHERS DISSENT

Norstad came here as a soldier. Other military men, including British, oppose reductions in Western armed strength because of big Communist forces.

The British step reply to Norstad's warning was to cite speeches by Sandys and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Sandys has emphasized the changing military concepts of the atomic age. He said, in effect, that there was no true defense against the hydrogen bomb.

The British view is that it has no other recourse but to cut costs, and to build up firepower as quickly as possible through American granted guided missiles and dual purpose cannon to which British atomic warheads could be fitted.

At Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE), one officer commented: "In view of the British cuts, the French withdrawal of the Algerian fighting, West Germany's failure so far to provide a promised 12 divisions, I don't see how this could help morale."

DROP IN SALES

For example, Rep. Patman (D-Tex), recently demanded to know how the government could "with a straight face" ask small savers to invest in the E bonds when they could buy other bonds paying higher interest yields.

Sales of the baby bonds have dropped off sharply in the past year because the general rise in interest rates has made other investments more attractive. During 1956, redemptions of E bonds exceeded sales by more than a half-billion dollars.

In identical bills sent to the House and Senate today the Treasury asked authority to apply to savings bonds the same flexible interest rules it now has for other types of federal securities.

These flexible rules date back to the second Liberty Loan Act of 1917 and allow interest payments up to 4½ per cent. A department spokesman emphasized, however, that nothing higher than 3½ per cent for savings bonds is contemplated for the foreseeable future.

Defense Aide Resigns

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower tonight accepted the resignation of Asst. Secretary of Defense Robert Tripp Ross, who has been under Senate committee inquiry regarding Army contracts let to his wife.

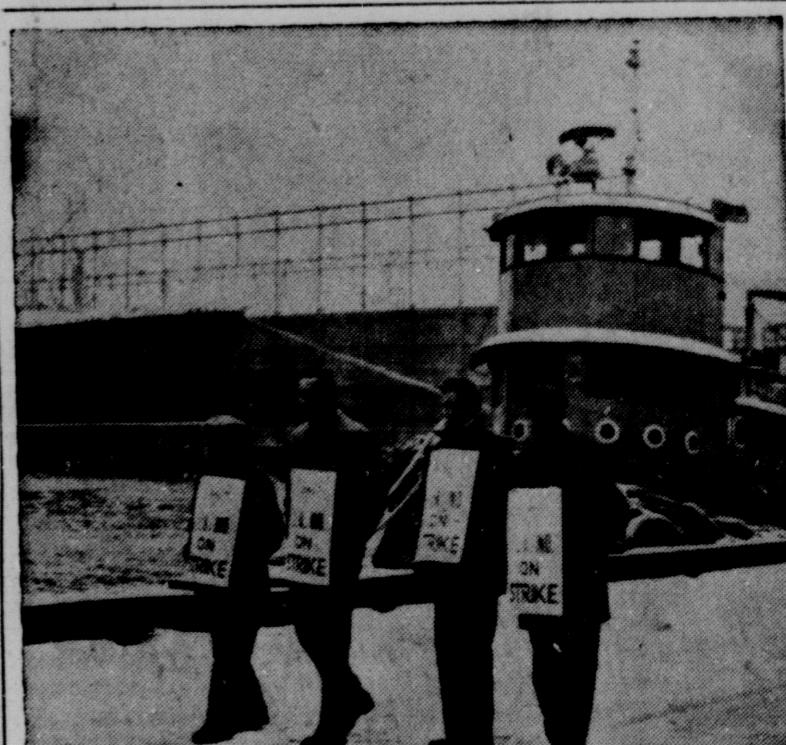

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Senate approval of the modified Middle East resolution was forecast today by Sen. Johnson (D-Tex) the majority leader.

Johnson said he favored the legislation, which proclaims the readiness of the United States to fight Communist aggression in the Middle East if President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are inclined to believe the language is necessary.

He predicted it would be passed by the Senate in substantially the same form it came out of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees yesterday. Meeting jointly the committees approved the resolution on a 20-8 vote.

Grimm of Farley, were united in marriage with the double ring ceremony at Trinity Lutheran Church, by the Rev. Victor H. Grimm, father of the bridegroom.

Tall white tapers in seven branch candelabra, and pink and white carnations, glads and snapdragons were used profusely in forming a background on each side of the altar. The church was softly lighted by candles.

Mrs. Elmer Fingland softly played on the organ "Romance" by Rubenstein and "Traumerei" by Schuman, preceding the wedding march. Mrs. Russell Estes, Smithton, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Martha Ann Young, Liberty, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. John R. Hays were the candle-lighters. They wore ballerina length dresses of lavender pink in taffeta and tulle, and wrist corsages of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Richard S. Morgan, wore a gown of frost white Rose Point lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin with all-over embroidery of imported iridescent sequin clusters, the molded bodice was fashioned with long sleeves of lace, the scalloped edges of lace forming a bateau neckline, high at the throat and curving into a low V at the back. The lavishly wide skirt, many tiers of ruffled tulle, featured a wide front and back panel of scalloped lace, cut to form a flaring peplum at each side. The bride's double illusion veil fell from a bandage of hand-sewn lace leaves, outlined in seed pearls. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible, with ribbon and flower shower-drops. The bride wore a diamond lavaliere, which was a gift from her father to her mother at the time of their marriage.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Campbell Barnds of Overland Park, Kan., as matron of honor, and her bridesmaid was Miss Carolyn Bagley, Kirksville. Both attendants wore identical dresses of lace and taffeta in cameo pink. The street length lace sheaths were sleeveless, with a Sabrina neckline. A very full double overskirt of taffeta folded back at each side of the center front to reveal the slender sheath. Little Miss Sara Jane Muller, niece of the bride, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Muller was flower girl. She wore a ballerina length dress of white net over taffeta, with a head dress of pink rosebuds and carried a basket of rose petals.

Barry Green, Houston, Tex., and Tom Swaidner, Macon, attended the bridegroom. Hugh Gardner, Kirksville, and Tom Donavan, St. Louis, served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of Dior blue silk, with matching French lace yoke, and a small tulle draped hat of the same color. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds. The mother of the bridegroom wore a two-piece blue silk dress, with self trim and rhinestones. She wore a small close-fitting hat of blue trimmed with sequins, and carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Muller, 615 West Broadway, for 175 guests.

The dining table was covered with white net over pink cloth, with a deep ruffled valance, and trimmed with pink and white lacy bows and pink carnations. It was

On top of the mirror were two red cupids with streamers which led to white wedding bells.

From the light fixture in the center of the living room was a circle from which were white satin ribbons each with something pertaining to the bride, the wedding ring on a satin pillow, her veil, her bouquet, her blue garter and other things.

In the dining room, suspended from the light above the dining room table, was a red silk umbrella filled with balloons, and over the umbrella was a sprinkler pouring out showers of streamers. On the buffet was a white tree covered with red hearts.

Says Ads Are Stimulation For Viewers

NEW YORK (AP) — Why do you tune to some television programs in preference to other programs?

John Eckstein, director of advertising for ABC-TV, believes that newspaper advertisements of television programs are one of the best means of attracting viewers. ABC spends a million dollars a year in newspaper ads.

"Newspapers are the mainstay of television advertising," he said. "We've found that people throughout the country refer to the television pages of their newspapers night after night. It has become one of the most popular sections of the paper. And the majority of papers, fully aware of the great public interest in television, devote as much space as they can to it."

The popularity of TV programs is judged, of course, by audience rating agencies which sample only a small percentage of viewers. In testing its theories about newspaper advertising, ABC has concentrated on ads in 14 cities where viewers are regularly polled by the audience rating agencies.

"We've found a direct relationship in several programs between advertisements and audience popularity," Eckstein said.

Besides newspaper advertising, the network promotes its programs on its own air time and presently is pioneering in such devices as animation, stop motion and other trick photography.

In only one city has ABC experimented with billboard advertising. That city is Los Angeles.

They were seen fleetingly by Dr. Robert S. Richardson through the Mt. Wilson 60-inch telescope June 3, 1956.

Dr. Richardson noted several other details as the planet approached the earth but never did reach its closest point until Sept. 7, when it was only 35,131,000 miles away.

The crooked blue lines probably are canals, Dr. Richardson said. But they are different from the long, straight lines heretofore seen by astronomers. The straight lines also have been called canals but they are a matter of much speculation. They appear during the Martian spring and fade out before autumn. They can be seen only occasionally and never have been photographed clearly.

Another difference noted by Dr. Richardson was that the desert canals were "distinctly blue" and looked something like veins running through a chunk of mineral. Other observers have described the better known straight lines as merely dark or gray.

Astronomer Reports New Lines on Mars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Something new on Mars—a network of irregular blue lines running through the bright red desert areas of the planet—is reported by California astronomer.

Interior Secretary Tells Subcommittee Resources Limited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Seaton said today the government has no authority to seize the oil industry or seek a voluntary agreement to hold down oil prices.

He added he is personally happy that a federal grand jury is reviewing the possibility of antitrust violations in the pricing field.

Seaton denied in testimony prepared for a joint hearing by the Senate Antitrust and Public Lands subcommittees that he ever told a subordinate not to answer questions of a congressional committee.

The joint committee is investigating the emergency program for oil for Europe instituted after closure of the Suez Canal, and the domestic price increases on gasoline and fuel oils which followed.

Interior's office of oil and gas is supervising the emergency supply program which is being carried out by a group of major oil companies with international connections operating under the name of the Middle East Emergency Committee.

Antitrust rules have been relaxed, for purposes of the overseas supply operation, to permit such things as pooling of transport and interchange of oil stocks.

Simultaneously with Seaton's testimony before the Senate group the House Commerce Committee called his assistant secretary, Eldredge Bond, California, and seven stepchildren, Hooper and W. J. Woolridge, of Woodbridge, Mo., Jeff and Harry Woodbridge and Mrs. Flossie Freeman, Bonville, Mrs. Fay Flynt, Midland, Tex., and Mrs. Georgia Lusk, St. Louis; and one sister, Mrs. Letha Sybert, California.

Reports Super Rocket Project By Soviet

LONDON (AP)—The British government says the Soviet Union is developing a nuclear-headed rocket that can climb more than 100 miles into space at speeds of more than 5,000 miles an hour.

To prevent possible attack by such weapons, Defense Minister Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons, Britain must be prepared to meet it with devastating retaliation.

After hearing Sandys' report, the House voted 302-243 in support of the month-old Macmillan government's defense policies. The vote followed party lines. An opposition Laborite motion to censure the government charged waste and mismanagement in defense.

shades. The little boys' hats are really snappy and there are little boy caps, too, much as the little boys used to wear.

Men's styles this year have the trim and tapered look that distinguishes the well dressed man of today. Fabrics are of a wide variety, and among them is the silk and wool material that is so popular. The new flat top hats with narrow brim and wide bands with bow in the back. Sports clothes included a gray-blue linen coat worn with navy blue slacks; beige silk and wool sports coats worn with very rich light brown wool flannel slacks and a washable golfer jacket worn with a pair of Bermuda shorts of dacron enriched rayon.

A very large crowd attended the style show and narrator was Mrs. Carl Yates. The very attractive setting of a sidewalk cafe had tables with red and white checked tablecloths, flowers and fashionably dressed men and women sitting at the tables. Adding a great deal to the theme was the acting of Mrs.
